

15 February 1969

REUTHER

COMRADES

On the eve of the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia, Victor Reuther trekked to Moscow where he was wined and dined by General Alexander Shelepin, president of what the Russians call the All-Union Central Council of Trade Unions of the USSR. He came back and reported to LBJ and the State Department that talk of impending Warsaw Pact invasion was all "hogwash." The CIA made an identical report to the White House, so LBJ went ahead with his plans for a summit conference in Moscow. Secretary of State Dean Rusk was starting to make a speech announcing the project conference when he was handed a note advising that Russian troops were crossing the Czechoslovakian frontier.

On the eve of the Israel air attack on the Beirut airport, Walter Reuther trekked to Tel Aviv, where he received the VIP red carpet treatment. An atomic energy chair was named in honor of Reuther by the Weizmann Institute of Science. Ever since Israel started research and development on a nuclear bomb, Reuther has been bankrolling the American Committee for the Weizmann Institute of Science that is directing the atomic program. Walter used funds collected by force from rank and file members of the United Auto Workers. Israel will shortly explode its first nuclear warhead.

Upon his return, Reuther conferred with LBJ and the State Department. What he reported WO does not know. But this much is known: the brothers Reuther are marching forward in their plan to build an inter-continental labor empire, stretching from Detroit to Moscow to Tel Aviv. It has been exposed in the past that the Reuthers have used unvouchered CIA cash in bribing European labor leaders in their negotiations. The UAW's chief economist, Nat Weinberg, is the chief negotiator in the ambitious global scheme.

The Reuther brothers also donate UAW funds to help support Hebrew University—an institution that practices racial and religious discrimination. UAW funds also subsidize the Jewish Daily Forward, a Zionist propaganda sheet.

STAT